TEACHING CALCULUS ONLINE: A FIRST EXPERIENCE AT UTEP

Last Wintermester the Module 3 of our Calculus I was offered online. This is the first online mathematics course offered at UTEP. In this talk, I will discuss

1. the technological challenges I faced when preparing this course,
2. the interactions I had with the students while I was thousands of miles away.

Then we will conclude with the results of the survey taken by the students.

There will be ample time to have an open and frank discussion with the faculty interested to develop online courses in our department.

Friday, February 26, 2010 at 3 pm in Bell Hall 143
